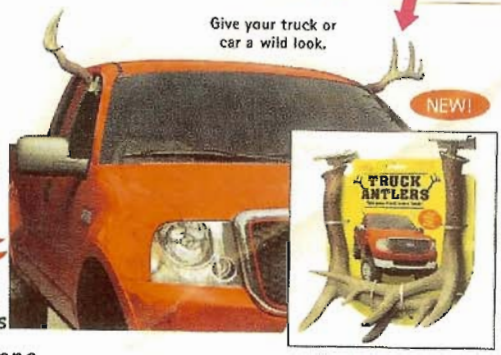
The Zumwacker 2008 Christmas Catalogue and Hanukkah

All items are real!

How many times have you had a runny nose and couldn't find a kleenex? Now that problem is solved with this ingenious device. Perfect for snotty Aunt Dotty

Most Tasteless Award



Inspired by Sarah Palin and Joe the Pumber we bring you Antlers for Your Truck. Not to be confused with Dumbo Ears for your SUV. That's right, now you can pretend that your pickup is a big ass, f*&#*% buck. At the same time you can pretend you actually have a brain cell somewhere in that cavern you call a head.

We know everyone wants one: a safe for your banana as well as other banana like objects. Think of it as the ultimate in protection for the holiday season.

This day clock is perfect for the moron in your home. If you add the week clock, the year clock and the century clock he/she may know they're alive.

It's the middle of the night and you want a dish of ice cream, but you don't want to turn the lights on. Slip your tootsies into these little sedans and voila, they light up and show you the way. Of course you'll fall flat on your face because they're enormous, but you'll be able to see your bruises very clearly.

Every one wants a Swiss Army Knife. But what tools to include? This one has everyone of them! It only weighs 22.5 pounds and fits comfortably in your Samsonite luggage.

Happy Holidays
from Mike and John